AlburyWodonga is more than a meeting point of two cities and two states on either side of the mighty Murray River.

It’s also where a sophisticated urban centre meets untamed countryside. Where Australia’s newest cultural landmarks meet ancient indigenous storytelling traditions. Where fine dining in a reimagined historic train station meets street food in a converted shipping container. Where a rich history of welcoming new people to our land meets an enduring sense of community today.

Whether you prefer the relaxed café scene, or the many adventures to be found on boats, bikes and golf buggies, a holiday here suits every pace of life.

Browsing languidly in boutiques, sampling the tasty regional produce, listening to an eclectic assortment of live music and getting back to nature defines our every day. And let’s not forget quick trips to the surrounding Alpine ski-fields and world-famous wine country.

But with so much to see, do, taste, feel and discover, where do you start? Right here with this guide. Make your plan, and make your way, to where everything comes together: AlburyWodonga.
YOUR 48-HOUR GUIDE

Two cities. Two days. Your weekend is sorted.

SATURDAY

Early morning
One of AlburyWodonga’s defining aspects is its connection with the Murray River. So what better start to your 48 hours than a morning meander along its grassy banks? Hire a bike or follow the bends of the river on foot along the Wagirra Trail (8.5km one way). Check out the indigenous sculptures along the Yindyamarra Sculpture Walk while listening to the birds in the trees – a perfect border beginning.

Breakfast
It wouldn’t be a Saturday morning in AlburyWodonga without a visit to the local Farmers Market (held alternate weeks at Hovell Tree Park and Gateway Village). Seasonal fruit and vegetables weigh down the trestle tables, while local farmers have a good chinwag with the regulars and visitors alike. Using local produce, the bacon and egg rolls and locally roasted coffee are hard to resist, as are the sweet treats.

Morning
With goodies in hand, Albury’s city centre beckons with plenty of boutique stores. Whether it’s art from a gallery, locally crafted accessories to match your fave outfit or that special gift, you’ll find speciality stores on every corner. While roaming, don’t forget to look up and admire the iconic Albury buildings from the 19th century. Simply download the walking tour app and go on a self-guided tour of the city.
Lunch
Oozing with hipster vibes, the food precinct at Junction Place Wodonga is always worth checking out. Its hub of eateries are housed within re-purposed buildings including a former railway station, goods shed and shipping containers. And the food is nothing less than top notch.

Afternoon
Take a short drive out of town to Bonegilla Migrant Experience and discover what life was like for the 320,000 post-World War II migrants who called Bonegilla their first Australian home. Then, a visit to the Hume Dam will always impress. Holding back over three million megalitres of water when full, this is a striking structure and a key landmark of AlburyWodonga.

Dinner
Glam up or style down when dining in AlburyWodonga. There’s everything from fine dining fare with fancy tablecloths to English pub meals and street food to fill that hungry void.

Night
An after-dinner stroll along Dean Street is recommended to work off any big feast. Adorned in fairy lights, the trees that line Albury’s main street really come into their own at night. Step inside one of the pubs, clubs or entertainment venues and you’ll find live gigs from local and national acts. Your night may become a little longer than expected.
SUNDAY

Early morning
Start the day early with a walk, or drive, to Eastern Hill or Huon Hill lookouts where you’ll be greeted by the sunrise over gently rolling hills. Offering spectacular 360-degree views, you’ll see Lake Hume, the Murray River, and the greater Albury-Wodonga region. Instantly Insta-worthy!

Breakfast
Having spent a day in Albury-Wodonga, you’ll already know that we like our food. With street seating, choose one of the sun-dappled cafés that line our main streets and devour a smashed avocado and haloumi stack, polenta porridge or breakfast burrito.
Morning
For our size, we pack quite a punch when it comes to art and culture. It’s hard to go past Murray Art Museum Albury (MAMA) without being intrigued by what’s inside. Take a peek at the diverse permanent collection, as well as travelling indigenous and contemporary art exhibitions. With small galleries and museums scattered across both cities, MAMA is only the beginning. If you like your culture less formal, there’s a growing number of sculptures and street art all around.

Lunch
With your local produce from the market, head down to the Community Wood Fired Oven at Albury’s Hovell Tree Park or Wodonga’s Belvoir Park and let the onsite bakers work their magic to deliver a perfectly cooked meal. Overlooking the Murray River, it’s the perfect setting for your final meal in AlburyWodonga – just check the times online.

Afternoon
Linger a little longer with a wander through the Albury Botanic Gardens. Considered a treasured spot by locals, it’s the ideal place to pause and start planning your next break to our beautiful part of the world. Because, really, two days is never enough.
Close your eyes and imagine how you’ll feel when immersed in the sights, sounds and sensations of the Murray River.

A gentle breeze against your skin, the soft lapping of water, the melody of native birdsong: some of the most sought-after vantage points on this great Australian natural wonder belong to AlburyWodonga.

The lush green banks of Noreuil Park offer a cooling oasis on a summer’s day, as you stretch out sheltered by the overhead gum canopy, or maybe even emerge from the Murray itself after floating around on its waters from Oddies Creek Park.

Stunning walking and riding trails wind their way along the river’s edge, offering the most magical of finds. Yindyamarra Sculpture Walk is a giant evolutionary step back into Aboriginal Dreamtime, with 5.3km of interactive indigenous art installations on the 8.5km-long Wagirra Trail. This is the spine that links many picturesque trails – start there then keep wandering (and wondering) along Bungambrawatha Creek, West Albury, South Albury, Gateway Island and Wodonga.

See the Murray River from an entirely different angle with a canoeing adventure. Whether you’re an expert or a novice, Murray River Canoe Hire’s instructors know the area like the back of their hands, and they can create a water experience that will help you make the most of the river.

Whether walking, running, paddling or riding – or just becoming one with nature – there are plenty of idyllic picnic stops along the Murray to unpack a basket when the stomach rumbles hit. Load yourself up with lovingly prepared local delicacies and produce from AlburyWodonga providores, and let the day slip away with your thoughts. Your mind and body will thank you.

The mighty Murray River is whatever you choose to make of it. Just head to the water.

LAKE HUME
LAKE HUME

Dam. It’s big.

With a spectacular backdrop of undulating hills, and the awe-inspiring dam taking centre stage, Lake Hume is nothing less than magnificent from every angle.

Immerse yourself in it all with a lazy day by the glistening waters – around six times the volume of Sydney Harbour – under the shade of a tree, feeling the warm sandy shoreline between your toes or taking it all in from the deck of a boat.

Only 15 minutes from town, the gentle, rolling slopes around Lake Hume make it very easy to set up for the day, and then cool down with a quick dip when the sun is high in the sky. If you’re after something to get your pulse racing, you might try your hand at wakeboarding, water-skiing or tube-riding from Adventure Ski. These water sports are available to individuals and groups of all experience levels, and are designed to satisfy the thrill-seeker in everyone.

Built between 1919 and 1936, the Lake Hume Dam is nothing less than an engineering triumph. Viewing platforms at various points along the wall offer stunning photo ops, and perfect picnic spots at nearby Kookaburra Point, with BBQs in place for a family day out. You can drop in to Posh Plonk to pick up your favourite local red, white or sparkling wine before heading home – but make sure you call ahead as bookings are essential.

Anglers of all levels have been casting off at Lake Hume for generations. Featuring local freshwater specialties such as Murray Cod, Brown Trout, Redfin and Golden Perch, the fish population is sustainably managed by Victorian and NSW authorities.

Such an abundance of fish means you’ve got excellent odds for catching your next meal or hooking an unforgettable first catch. Before you bait that first hook, make sure you have a Victorian or New South Wales Fishing Licence depending on location, if you haven’t already got one.

As another sunset melts into the horizon, you’ll be blessed with one last photo opportunity from your day at Lake Hume. But it’s more than likely you’ll come back again tomorrow, just like the locals do.

Home to a diverse regional dining scene, there are all sorts of ways to treat yourself in AlburyWodonga.

You’ll find plenty of places draw on regional produce to create gourmet delights, and there’s a smorgasbord of choice. Wander the streets for everything from fancy long lunches at Canvas Eatery, to street food served from a shipping container at Andiamo Street Kitchen. Or settle in by the Murray River for an al fresco picnic with a view.

You might want to start your gastronomic journey with breakfast at The Proprietor, set within a heritage building, or at one of the many cafés lining Dean Street. With coffee brewed by baristas every bit as passionate as their counterparts in Brunswick or Coogee, you’ll get the perfect morning caffeine fix at the likes of BeanStation Cafe and many others.

When cravings hit around lunchtime, The River Deck takes pride of place on the Murray River – the only venue in town with a riverfront vantage point, where views are only matched by the delicious food and wines from the region.

Or take a terrace seat at Canvas Eatery overlooking the beautiful green space of QEII Square. With a well-picked wine or boutique beer, there’s no better way to spend your afternoons in AlburyWodonga.
DAYTIME DINING AT CANVAS EATERY, ALBURY
“We’re so fortunate to have our businesses in an area where fresh, seasonal produce is so plentiful,” explains Farrah. “Really, we’re very lucky. The local people are not satisfied with generic, bad or ‘fad’ food.”

Born and bred locally, Farrah can speak from experience. She may have moved from the region to attend university but home beckoned her back again. And she didn’t have to go far to meet Andrea, even though he hails from Milan in Italy. Andrea was working in the Rutherglen wineries when he and Farrah had a meeting of the minds and—ecco! – Andiamo was created.

Housed within a transformed shipping container at Junction Place, an area formerly inhabited by railyards, Andiamo offers sensational, moreish fare with handmade Italian and Mexican-influenced street food. But maybe even more appealing to the young (and young at heart) is their luscious, colourful display of gelati made fresh on-premises daily.

Even though Farrah and Andrea’s businesses are international in flavour, they are built on a foundation of locally sourced produce.

From the North East Victorian gateway of Milawa, across the King and Kiewa valleys, and right up through the high country, the fertile soils of the AlburyWodonga hinterland creates bountiful harvests that are fully embraced by many of the region’s restaurateurs. Even visitors to the area can get their pick of produce and wholefoods by popping into one of the local markets.

Farrah pinpoints the Junction Square Farmers’ Market – on the first and third Sunday of every month – as a great place to stock up on ethically produced foods and award-winning products, direct from the growers and artisan food producers.

‘At the moment, things are really moving forward, and businesses are changing their way of thinking,’ says Farrah.
“AlburyWodonga is establishing itself as somewhere for tourists to come and eat as a destination.”
With so much to see and do in AlburyWodonga, it’s inevitable you’ll work up a healthy appetite at the end of any given day.

Luckily, your whole family will be treated to a meal to remember, with dining options to suit just about every occasion, budget and palate.

A generous supply of pubs, restaurants and wine bars means every hour seems like happy hour. Award-winning craft beers and locally produced wines complement the creativity of the menus to give you the best of AlburyWodonga on your table. Don’t be shy to ask the staff for recommendations and try some seasonal delicacies at the likes of Bistro Selle.

AlburyWodonga is also blessed with an excellent array of restaurants dedicated to replicating cuisine styles that are inspired by traditions from around the world.

Venues use regional produce to create an authentic and unforgettable international dining experience.

For those seeking more refined, five-star dining to unwind after a busy (or lazy) day, AlburyWodonga has attracted a number of chefs who’ve tackled some of the more challenging kitchens in the world and opted to bring their culinary skills back to the region. Especially notable is Miss Amelie, the fine dining hot spot set within an old railway station building.

Next door is the wine bar Little Miss, or keep it casual at The Goods Shed Craft Beer Cafe, also in Junction Place, the epicentre of good eating in Wodonga.

The problem with dining out around here is getting to everything in just one visit. But that’s okay – you can always come back for seconds.

STEP BACK IN TIME

A walk around town reveals the past.

Take a stroll through the streets of AlburyWodonga and you’ll find yourself surrounded by history.

From the Albury Botanic Gardens, one of the finest regional botanical gardens in Australia, to the picturesque streetscapes of Victorian, Federation and Art Deco architecture, you’ll love walking among the area’s heritage charm.

A great place to kick off your journey into yesteryear is the Albury Visitor Information Centre, itself set within a stately old building in the historic railway precinct. Pick up a map, and head over to the grand Albury Railway Station, which boasts the longest covered railway platform in Australia.

From here it’s an easy walk into town, where the signposted Albury CBD Historic Building Walking Tour will guide you past significant 19th and 20th century buildings including the Post Office, Court House, Telegraph Office and Colonial Mutual Life Building. Download the Albury’s Historic Buildings Walk app to get the full picture as you go.

There’s more to discover at the award-winning LibraryMuseum. The permanent exhibition, Crossing Place: A Story of Albury tells the story of first contact with the Wiradjuri people, traditional owners of the land, alongside many more fascinating stories of the past.

Next, it’s time to trek up Monument Hill to pay your respects at the War Memorial, erected in 1925 and dedicated to the men and women who served in World War I. Take a moment to enjoy spectacular views of Albury’s main street and the surrounding countryside, then set off on a walking track with the blissful sights and sounds of the bush all around you.

Another leisurely stroll closer to town is the Yindyamarrra Sculpture Walk which features 11 art sites by local Aboriginal artists telling the stories and cultural significance of the Murray River.

Along the streets, through the trees and by the banks, you’ll find AlburyWodonga home to many reminders of its colourful history.
Hit the road to discover more about this part of Australia, and the great significance it holds for many people.

That’s especially true of the approximately 320,000 European migrants who arrived after World War II as part of the government’s migration scheme; staying for a time here on their way to their new lives in Australia. Today Bonegilla Migrant Experience tells their personal stories through memorabilia amid their one-time living quarters. Many of those people, and their descendants, have made a pilgrimage here. It’s a must-visit for anyone interested in Australia’s multicultural history.

Just minutes out of town is the Jindera Pioneer Museum which recreates the days of early pioneers. There are historic buildings and relics to explore, including the Pioneer Slab Hut and an original wattle and daub cottage from over 150 years ago.

In Greater Hume, there are more places where you can connect with the past, including Morgan’s Lookout where the notorious bushranger Mad Dog Morgan hid from police in the 1860s. Climb the steps for spectacular 360-degree panoramas of the region, then post the views to make the folks at home jealous!

With a quick detour to the quaint town of Holbrook you’ll find the Holbrook Submarine. It stands as a memorial to those brave souls who have served in submarines during times of war and peace. You can learn all about their experiences at the Submarine Museum. Speaking of military history, another popular destination just a short drive away is the Army Museum Bandiana. War buffs, historians and general visitors alike will love to get up close to its extensive collection of uniforms and weapons, as well as its 150 military vehicles including bikes, cars, trucks, heavy equipment and armoured vehicles.

Whatever your interest, the drive around AlburyWodonga alone is worth your time, with picturesque views of the countryside all around and stops along the way ready to engage and enlighten.

The former Wodonga Railway Station, built in 1873, is now the centre of the region’s on-trend dining scene, with the precinct retaining many original features. Where there were once steam trains, upcycling has created unique places for coffee, casual meals, fine dining, community events and more.
Whether perusing the exhibition spaces of world class galleries or exploring renowned sculpture trails, you’ll be inspired at every turn.

A good launching pad for your artistic journey is the Murray Art Museum Albury (MAMA), which has established itself as a major Australian cultural destination with permanent, touring and exclusive exhibitions. A contemporary art museum, MAMA alone is worth the visit to AlburyWodonga for the artistically curious.

Similarly, Gateway Village is a mini arts precinct that brings together a number of smaller galleries and theatre productions along with food and entertainment, for a cultural experience that can stretch from morning to night. Enjoy a glimpse into the workings of an artist-in-residence, or purchase a stunning artwork to take home and immortalise your AlburyWodonga connection.

Continue enveloping yourself in art with Arts Space Wodonga, a vibrant and accessible contemporary art gallery hub that features up to 10 exhibitions every year from emerging and professional contemporary artists to touring exhibitions. It’s an excellent destination for discovering a fresh, new artistic voice and getting a sense of what makes the local artistic community tick.

Of course you don’t even need to go indoors to see the work of artists in AlburyWodonga. Along with the magnificent indigenous sculptures along the Murray on the Yindyamarra Sculpture Walk, the walls and surfaces of the whole town act as colourful canvases for street art displays. Keep your eyes open because you’ll never know what delights you’ll find just around the corner.

And did you know the nationally renowned Flying Fruit Fly Circus calls AlburyWodonga home? Their building is open every day, and they welcome visitors most weekday afternoons.

AlburyWodonga beats with a thriving artistic heart that is sure to awaken the creative spirit within you.

A PAINTER’S PORTRAIT
The artist’s life in broad strokes.

Alison Percy
ARTIST

Alison Percy is a highly regarded local artist who doesn’t hold back when listing the privileges of calling AlburyWodonga home.

She talks about seeking inspirational High Country landscapes to paint en plein air while her husband enjoys a spot of fishing, floating down the Murray River in a tyre tube and finding magic in the contemporary Aboriginal artworks of the Yindyamarra Sculpture Walk on the Wagirra Trail.

“The local galleries provide many opportunities for artists to come together and showcase their work. In recent years, there seems to have been growth in young entrepreneurial creatives keen to establish themselves, or remain, in our region to bring up their families.”

Having grown up on an idyllic farm located on the outskirts of town, both Alison and her husband have AlburyWodonga in their blood – multiple generations, in fact.

As an artist who has never left the region, she feels her aspirations have not been hindered by this decision; instead, they have flourished.

“I worked freelance as a designer, illustrator, interior design consultant and calligrapher while our young family was growing up,” Alison reflects. “Now, I have come full circle, working full-time as an artist, and this is where I’ll remain. I’m absolutely loving the journey.”

When asked to name her cultural highlights in AlburyWodonga, Alison admits, “There’s so much on offer. I’m often attending an artist talk or exhibition opening at one of the many local galleries.”

Besides the galleries in town, as a painter, everything Alison needs is at her door. “The landscape through the Murray region provides enormous inspiration for me as an artist – from the magnificent Murray River, along the Kiewa Valley and up onto the High Plains,” she explains. Even if you’re not a painter, these are picturesque landscapes everyone can enjoy.
“I feel so fortunate to be part of such a vibrant, active and supportive arts community.”

AlburyWodonga’s rich narrative of culture, heritage and local life is celebrated across the arts, from multiple galleries and the performing arts to curated experiences, festival and events.
You’ve been invigorated by a day of fresh air, scenic vistas and exciting discoveries. Now it’s time to hit the town.

While many regional centres are settling down for the night, AlburyWodonga comes alive. Whether sitting in the front row of a theatre, propping yourself up at a bar or tapping your toes to live and local bands, you’ll never have a dull evening here. The gig guide changes every week with a rotating roster of local talent, and national and international acts, which means you’re sure to find something to suit all age groups and tastes.

Of course, if you’re not up for a show, you might be just as happy sitting back and shooting the breeze with friends at laneway bars, rooftop terraces and cocktail lounges. Venues such as The Commercial Club, The Goods Shed Craft Beer Cafe, Beer Deluxe, The Bended Elbow, Zed Bar, Public House or the legendary SS&A Club create the kind of atmosphere that will have you lounging until closing hours. For a taste of the local beer scene, try one of the many brewed onsite at the Albury Brewhouse, from the Monument Hill Lager to the Hume Dam Pale Ale.

Good food, wine and beers – that’s something AlburyWodonga has mastered. Ensuring you have the entertainment to take your night from good to great is just an extension of the local hospitality. Tell your family not to wait up.

GET BACK TO NATURE

Peace and tranquillity are yours.

Leave the deadlines, emails and mobile phone behind. There’s no better way to spend quality ‘me-time’ than in the many beautiful parks and gardens of AlburyWodonga.

Centrally located at the west end of Dean Street, Albury Botanic Gardens is the ideal sanctuary for – quite literally – stopping and smelling the roses. In the Children’s Garden you’ll find dinosaur sculptures, cubby houses, a fairy temple and troll caves to keep the kids occupied for hours. While the heritage and rainforest self-guided tours are a fun and informative way to explore the ins and outs of the gardens.

Belvoir Park and Sumsion Gardens also integrate the best of nature with state-of-the-art amenities that are guaranteed to keep families (and their canine friends) entertained across long, languid alfresco feasts on weekends. The excellent play equipment – slides, rope ladders and a climbing pyramid – are great for kids to burn off some energy, while others might prefer to secure a grassy spot and indulge in an afternoon siesta.

Belvoir Park features a Liberty Swing. This is an accessible swing for children and adults who use a wheelchair, and gives them the ability to experience the joy and recreation of using a swing. A key is needed to access The Liberty Swing and is available from Wodonga Council offices and the Albury Visitor Information Centre.

At various times of the year, the Community Wood Fired Oven, in both the Hovell Tree and Belvoir Parks, is set ablaze for everyone to test their pizza-making skills. Check the website for baking dates.

The shade of Noreuil Park and Gateway Island on the banks of the Murray is a wonderful way to bliss-out during hot days. Locals love floating along the water on a tube, and you can’t miss the squeals of delight from kids scampering all over the nearby Oddies Creek Playspace.

Whichever patch of parkland beauty you prefer, a pre-packed picnic hamper from a local providore, such as Ebden & Olive, is the perfect accompaniment to top off your park experience. Or you can just grab a book, choose a corner of the great outdoors that looks appealing, and you’re set.
The wind in your hair, clean air filling your lungs and kilometres of open land or water as far as the eye can see.

Albury-Wodonga is the place where all your sporting dreams come true. Particularly in the warmer months, the region comes into its own with some stunning natural waterways for swimming, such as the Murray River or Lake Hume. And if you need supervision, Albury Swim Centre, Lavington Swim Centre, WAVES and Wodonga Sports and Leisure Centre will help you keep your cool while the kids make a big splash.

Back on land, the 35km High Country Rail Trail is sure to take your breath away with its spectacular scenery. Winding around from Wodonga to Tallangatta via the old Cudgewa railway line, the trail can be cycled, run or walked at a pace that suits you. Whatever you do, just don’t forget the camera for the unforgettable photo ops en-route.

Speaking of walking, there are many picturesque walking trails to explore throughout the region. Gateway Island, Wonga Wetlands and the Wagirra and the Yindyamarra Sculpture Walk are popular with nature-watchers and photographers alike who are keen to snap that special shot. Additionally, these trails accommodate all fitness levels and have plenty of places to pause for a spell or a picnic. There is also ample parking and public toilet access along the way.

Whatever your preferred speed, there’s a pathway calling your name!

For those who don’t mind working up a serious sweat

Beginner and experienced mountain bike riders have been enjoying the challenge of Nail Can Hill for years, while McFarlanes Hill is the first choice for runners.
With a bumper selection of things to do inside and out, keeping even the smallest traveller in your family happy, is easy in AlburyWodonga.

Outdoors

AlburyWodonga is home to two major playgrounds that can only be described as EPIC. Oddies Creek Playspace caters for children of all abilities, featuring wheelchair ramps and a 30-metre flying fox, while the Belvoir Park Playground boasts a liberty swing and a lakeside walking and cycling path.

Smaller children (and their parents) may prefer the Children’s Garden in the picturesque Albury Botanic Gardens - home to a brand new cubbytree and the gardens’ famous dinosaurs.

For some more active outdoor adventures, you can’t beat the two-wheeled thrills of Border BMX. Or make a splash the Albury Swim Centre or WAVES in Wodonga, each with toddler pools and plenty of shade.

Indoors

Never fear, Mum and Dad – when the skies darken there are plenty of bright spots indoors to keep kids entertained. Families can do battle in the dark at Zone Lazer Tag Albury or on the greens of Mini Golf Zone. Albury Indoor Rock Climbing, Albury Skating Centre and Wodonga Ice Skating Rink will all have you working up a sweat, while the Escape Room will give your brain muscle a workout as you try to solve some fiendishly clever problems.

Then see who can bounce or climb the highest on the trampolines and climbing walls of Supatramp, and find out who your family’s champion of the lanes is at Twin Cities Ten Pin Bowl. For the littlest of little ones, check out Rumble Tumbles and Scrambles where kids can play while parents can coffee.
Belvoir Park Playground

The Belvoir Park Playground is set amid Belvoir Park, a large open space with established trees and a lake abundant with water birds. The park features a walking track around the lake, picnic and BBQ facilities and shelters, public toilets, baby change facilities and a liberty swing, all conveniently located within 1.5km of the Wodonga CBD.

INTERVIEW

STRIKING A CHORD

One muso and his love for the region.

James Eggleston
CO-FOUNDER OF BY THE BANKS MUSIC FESTIVAL

For James, it was his high school music teachers who sparked a passion for music. AlburyWodonga may be known far and wide for its sporting culture but more and more music opportunities presented themselves to James as he began his journey into the local scene.

“There is a camaraderie among local musos,” he observes. “You get to know and support other musicians around your age and area, and it’s nice to feel like you’re a part of something.”

James began By the Banks after travelling with his band, The Northern Folk, to perform at other festival events across Australia.

“Two of us were talking about why it was that AlburyWodonga didn’t have an independent music festival,” he explains. “We realised, if anyone was going to do it, it may as well be us.”

Since it kicked off in 2017, By the Banks continues to go from strength to strength. And James believes the live music scene in the region is now better than ever.

When asked where visitors can enjoy local talent, James says, “Retro Youth Café has always been a massive supporter of local music, and it’s great to see places like SS&A and Beer Deluxe booking a mix of local and big acts. It seems like AlburyWodonga is now on the radar for notable travelling acts, too.”

“When I was growing up there was a big punk and metal scene, then that gave way a bit to more of an indie-folk scene,” he admits. “I know there’s also still a healthy appreciation for classical music here, and the Border Music Camp and Albury Chamber Music Festival are major boosts for that genre.”

Make sure you check the calendar and weekly gig guide because there’s sure to be a concert, event or gig that fills your musical passion in AlburyWodonga.
“We really wanted to give locals an opportunity to attend an event that is grounded in appreciation of independent music, plus give quality musicians we’d met on the road a chance to play to a new audience.”

AlburyWodonga is the heart of a greater world of touring adventures in the nearby high country and wine country. Hit the road with these two adventures.

Itinerary #1: History on high

Time-travel back to the heritage-rich Beechworth. Only a 45-minute drive from AlburyWodonga, the timeless beauty of this town is sure to captivate. Shop for locally produced honey and beauty products at Beechworth Honey or take a sweet cooking class. Visit the notorious Beechworth Gaol – the one-time ‘home’ of legendary outlaw Ned Kelly, as well as his mother, Ellen.

From Beechworth, head to Yackandandah for your art and culture fix. Home to a number of renowned artists, ‘Yack’ is known for its artisanal creations, from pottery to fine art, including the gallery of celebrated painter Charles Sluga, Sluga Gallery. Enjoy award-winning pies from Gum Tree Pies, a sustainable and seasonal menu at Saint Monday or the Rusty Bike Cafe, then make space in the boot of the car for some antique shopping in the unhurried and historic town of Chiltern.

Itinerary #2: Wine country

Keen to sample some of the best wines Australia has to offer? Just over 30 minutes west of AlburyWodonga is Rutherglen and Corowa, famous for their distinctive Rutherglen reds. Start your day at Corowa Whisky and Chocolate, where you can make your own chocolate and relax over a casual meal in an exquisite setting created from repurposed, disused wheat silos. Then make your way to the award-winning Thousand Pound Wine Bar and Store, pouring the region’s finest alongside tasty chef-driven fare.
out of town
Explore the hinterland.
From history buffs and adventure seekers, to scenery admirers and nature wanderers, Greater Hume Shire has something for everyone to see and do. Offering full and half day tours. Learn about submarines at Holbrook, historic agriculture at Henty and early settlers at the Jindera Pioneer, Woolpack Inn and Culcairn Station Masters museums. For nature enthusiasts, choose from Morgan’s Lookout, Woomargama National Park, Gum Swamp and Wirraminna Environmental Education Centre.
Don’t miss:

If you’re after some fun in the winter snow or a refreshing summer highland breeze, Falls Creek, Mt Hotham and Mt Buffalo are all an easy drive from AlburyWodonga.
Falls Creek is the jewel of Victoria’s Alpine National Park with unique activities for all. Ski Victoria’s largest resort, sail Australia’s highest alpine lake, ride world-class mountain bike park trails or conquer one of the most inspirational road rides in Victoria – it’s all here in a holiday destination that’s bursting with adventure and excitement.

Falls Creek is a perfectly equipped alpine village with over 5,000 beds and a wealth of quality food and beverage outlets open year-round. The best part is Falls Creek is only a 1½ hour drive from Albury so it’s close enough for a day trip, weekend away or full family holiday. Whether you love to slide in winter, ride in summer, or both, Falls Creek is the perfect destination to adventure your way!

Strategically located between Melbourne, Sydney and Canberra, AlburyWodonga is easily accessible by road, rail or air.

You’ll find driving along the Hume Freeway straightforward, with plenty of places of interest to stop at along the way. For the jet-set, the recently expanded Albury Airport connects with Sydney and Melbourne with plenty of flights in and out every day. Or if you prefer the romance of the rails, NSW TrainLink and V/Line have a number of daily services connecting with Melbourne and Sydney.

Once you’re here, there are plenty of convenient ways to get around – whether flying over snow-capped mountains in a chartered helicopter flight from Forest Air and Helifly, taking an informative bus tour, or joining an organised bike ride out of town and through the beautiful countryside.

If you need some help finding your way around or you’re just after some friendly local advice, head for the Albury Visitor Information Centre by the historic Albury Railway Station. From the highlights to the hidden secrets, they’re here to help everyone get the most out of this incredible part of Australia.
